

CM/JR 318 TRUTH TELLING: ETHICAL JOURNALISM IN THE AGE OF INSTANT MEDIA

IES Abroad Barcelona

DESCRIPTION:

This course explores the foundations of professional journalism, and critically examines – through practical trial – the bases of the ethical code that developed out of the practice of the journalistic profession in the age of print, and undergirded the best journalism through the mass media age. The course will focus on developments in communications technology and the effects these have had on the culture, asking whether journalism as it has traditionally been understood and practiced is still possible within the contemporary culture and environment of digital media. Spanish and International News will be considered for examination and analysis through the new independent media in digital platforms as a response to traditional Mainstream Media.

CREDITS: 3 credits

CONTACT HOURS: 45 hours

LANGUAGE OF INSTRUCTION: English

PREREQUISITES: None

ADDITIONAL COST: None

METHOD OF PRESENTATION:

Class sessions will be discussion based and intensely participatory, with the traditional lecture format largely replaced by a “newsroom” format of structured debate with the professor in the role of “editor-in-chief.” Successful students will listen carefully and engage constantly, developing their ability to express ideas forcefully while being respectfully – though sometimes harshly – critical of their own, their peers’, and their professor’s ideas.

REQUIRED WORK AND FORM OF ASSESSMENT:

- Class participation – 10%
- Writing Assignments – 30% (Two journalist articles 12.5% each)
- Oral class presentation - 20
- Mid-term – 20%
- Final – 20%

Class Participation

There will be a “news roundup” at the beginning of each class session, in which students will be required to identify and discuss the major news stories in each geopolitical and cultural region.

*Course-related Trips: Students will receive, no less than one week before each excursion, a “briefing packet” from the professor, which will contain details regarding the “5 Ws” of the session’s course-related excursion venue. The general purpose of the excursion is to offer exposure to practical journalism – to allow students to “see what we’ve been talking about” in class: the specific outside-of-class work assignments roughly corresponding to the scheduled excursion days are designed to elicit indicia of understanding and – most importantly – of students’ critical appropriation of journalistic craft and process.

Writing Assignments

Students will be required to submit a writing assignment, in the form of a news story, news analysis piece, or opinion essay, for each class session. The professor will choose 1-3 pieces from among the submissions and moderate a discussion of the selected pieces’ strengths and weaknesses at the next class meeting.

Written assignments will receive a two-tiered evaluation: the professor and/or other class members will read and “red pen” written assignments as they are completed; the professor will read them and offer a “global” evaluation based on improvement at the end of the semester, with an eye toward measuring development of basic journalistic craft. Deadlines are deadlines: late assignments will not be accepted under any circumstances.

Oral Midterm and Final Exams

The mid-term and final exams will be in-class and of the “forced essay” format, with the students presented with five prompts, from which they shall choose two: the prompts will include two choices on questions of journalistic ethics, and three choices drawn from current news items apt to elicit evidence of informed critical/analytical acumen. Students will choose one ethical and one analytical prompt.

Oral Class Presentation on Readings

Students will present in class a synthesis of the class reading articles or videos in each session in a Power Point with the key concepts in order to facilitate its comprehension.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:

By the end of the course students will be able to:

- Identify the characteristic traits of journalism (as opposed to public intellectualism and “click bait”)
- Distinguish “straight reporting” from feature writing and opinion/editorial writing
- Recognize strong reporting and opinion writing
- Exercise powers of observation
- Take journalistic notes
- Self-edit and edit the work of others for synthesis
- Construct a news story under real deadline pressure

ATTENDANCE POLICY:

As a member of our class community, you are expected to be present and on time every day. Attending class has an impact on your learning and academic success. For this reason, attendance is required for all IES Barcelona classes, including course-related excursions. If a student misses more than three classes in any course without justification, 3 percentage points will be deducted from the final grade for every additional absence. Seven unjustified absences in any course will result in a failing grade. Absences will only be justified, and assessed work, including exams, tests and presentations rescheduled, in cases of documented medical or family emergencies.
