

LT 334 IDENTITY BETWEEN DREAM AND REALITY IN ITALIAN LITERATURE

IES Abroad Siena

DESCRIPTION:

The aim of this course is to analyze fundamental traits of Italian literature in the context of modernity referring to a period which concerns both the passage from the nineteenth century to the twentieth century and the first phase of the twentieth century marked by historical changes (until WWII). The question of identity is considered as a relevant one in order to connect the literary texts with the cultural contexts, including science, philosophy, anthropology, and psychoanalysis, with special attention to the problematic way of intending reality from a perspective dealing with dream in every sense.

The role and the value of dream change in the passage from the Ottocento to the Novecento. Dreams show their importance in connection with a new 'vision': every aspect of life becomes dreamlike, as well as narration in literary works. The language of dream is fundamental in order to understand both the deep dynamics of concrete world and the creative language of literary world. However, dreams have a symbolic function in literary texts, because they evoke connections among different themes, situations and/or characters.

The question of identity regards significant authors: Italo Svevo, Federigo Tozzi, a Sienese writer able to stimulate students' reflections on the local context, Luigi Pirandello, Alberto Moravia, Umberto Saba, Eugenio Montale, but also Sibilla Aleramo, whose work is important for the reasoning on female writing. Then this question allows students to think over the characteristics of various genres (short story, novel, autobiography, and poetry, with their connections). Furthermore, literary experiences related to other periods or countries are examined (see in particular the references to Dante, Fëodor Michailovič Dostoevskij, Franz Kafka, and T. S. Eliot).

LEARNING OUTCOMES:

By the end of the course, students will be able to:

- develop skills to critically evaluate Italian literature referring to the historical and cultural contexts;
- explain the importance of the question of identity in the context of modernity;
- discuss the value of dreams and dreamlike situations in the novels by Italo Svevo;
- indicate the aspects of female writing in Italy in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries referring in particular to Una donna by Sibilla Aleramo;
- examine the connections between narrative techniques and modern themes in some short stories by Federigo Tozzi, Luigi Pirandello, and Alberto Moravia;
- analyze the language and role of poetry in Umberto Saba and Eugenio Montale with special attention to the representation of female figure.

ATTENDANCE POLICY:

Successful progress of the program depends on the full cooperation of both students and faculty members: regular attendance and active participation in class are essential parts of the learning process. Attendance at and participation in all class meetings are required. IES Abroad Siena allows a maximum of TWO excused absences per semester. Each additional absence will automatically result in a penalty of 2 percentage points off the final grade for each unjustified absence and 4 percentage points for a scheduled academic day trip. SEVEN absences per course (including 2 excused absences) will result in a failing grade for that course.

Furthermore, an absence on the date of scheduled tests, presentations or quizzes does not entitle you to recover/reschedule such tests. Failure to attend your midterm and/or final exam will result in an F grade on that paper/exam.

Weeks 11-13	Poems by Eugenio Montale: Identity, Sublimated Women, and Value of Literature <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Analysis of three poems from Ossi di seppia by Eugenio Montale (1896-1981), Non chiederci la parola, Incontro and Forse un mattino andando in un'aria di vetro, with specific observations regarding Dante and Leopardi, as well as Italo Calvino's interpretation: poetics of negation as an extreme attempt to define the role of poets dealing with modernity; female figure already expressing a function of guide; evocation of a 'miracle'. - Analysis of three poems from Le occasioni by Montale, Addii, fischi nel buio, cenni, tosse, Nuove stanze and Ti libero la fronte dai ghiaccioli, especially referring to T. S. Eliot and his 'objective correlative', as well as to Dante (as considered in both Montale's and Eliot's interpretations): contrast between interior and exterior (protecting home vs. 'infernal' city); conflicts concerning life and death, mass society and the individual, violence of history and force of poetry; dreamlike evocations of a sublimated woman – Clizia, namely Irma Brandeis, an American scholar who influenced Montale's life and poetry – connected with cultural aspects related to the value of literature in particular; comparison with Dante's representation of Beatrice as an angel-like woman in Tanto gentile e tanto onesta pare and references to the allegorical importance of the character in question as a proper woman-angel and elevating guide in the Commedia; however, underlining of the differences between the two historical and cultural contexts (the Middle Ages and modernity) through Montale's Dante ieri e oggi, with special attention to the indications about the medieval concentric world and the contemporary world in perpetual expansion, whereas a sense of continuity between the periods could be seen in truth-seeking as expressed in modern poetry. 	Readings: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Eugenio Montale's life and works (in Romano Luperini, Pietro Cataldi and Lidia Marchiani (eds.), "La scrittura e l'interpretazione", history and anthology of Italian literature, pp. 245-249). • Eugenio Montale, "Non chiederci la parola" (poem, pp. 250-251). • Eugenio Montale, "Incontro" (poem, pp. 252-256). • Eugenio Montale, "Forse un mattino andando in un'aria di vetro" (poem, pp. 257-258). • Eugenio Montale, "Addii, fischi nel buio, cenni, tosse" (poem, pp. 259-261). • Eugenio Montale, "Nuove stanze" (poem, pp. 262-266). • Eugenio Montale, from "Intenzioni. Intervista immaginaria" (prose, pp. 266-267). • Dante Alighieri, "Tanto gentile e tanto onesta pare" (poem, pp. 268-269). • Eugenio Montale, from "Dante ieri e oggi" (prose, p. 270). • Eugenio Montale, "Ti libero la fronte dai ghiaccioli" (poem, pp. 271-272). • Pier Vincenzo Mengaldo, "Eugenio Montale," 1978 (critical essay, pp. 273-280). • Italo Calvino, "Forse un mattino andando," 1977 (critical essay, pp. 281-284). - Submission and oral presentation of the paper on a topic chosen by student (Week 13).
