101 Novice Abroad I

STUDENT PROFILE:
This course is designed for students with little or no prior knowledge of the language.

By the end of the course, the successful student will develop a basic foundation in the five skills: intercultural communication, reading, writing, listening, and speaking to accomplish a variety of basic everyday needs in the host culture as described in the learning outcomes below.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:
By the end of the course, students will be able to achieve some of the outcomes for the Novice Abroad level as defined by the MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. The key learning outcomes from the MAP are summarized below:

I. Intercultural Communication
   A. Students will be able to meet basic everyday needs using verbal communication, use compensatory strategies when they do not know the word or expression (repetition, body language, etc.), and identify some basic nonverbal communication strategies.
   B. Students will be able to recognize basic appropriate and inappropriate expressions and behaviors in the host language.
   C. Students will be able to distinguish between basic representations of formality and informality in the language.
   D. Students will understand that there may be differences between cultural stereotypes and generalizations between the home culture and host culture.

II. Listening
   A. Students will be able to understand basic statements, requests, descriptions, and questions in specific cultural context relevant to them (hosts’ interactions, Center interactions, studying, shopping, transportation, meals).
   B. Students will be able to use context to understand the gist of some basic spoken language they overhear, including the media, conversations between others, and announcements.

III. Speaking
   A. Students will be able to use some basic phrases appropriately in some everyday situations (home, the IES Abroad Center, the community).
   B. Students will be able to express some basic needs by asking questions, and get what they need in uncomplicated, everyday situations.

IV. Reading
   A. Students will be able to identify and understand basic sentences.
   B. Students will be able to interpret main ideas in short passages and news headlines, but their understanding is often limited to the words or groups of words that they have seen in class.

V. Writing
   A. With limited accuracy, students will be able to write short sentences and short paragraphs about basic and concrete topics they have studied, such as themselves, their families, their friends, their likes and dislikes, and their daily routines.
   B. Students will be able to send basic emails, text messages, postcards, and online posts, and fill out some basic forms.
102 Novice Abroad II

STUDENT PROFILE:
This course is designed for students with very basic knowledge of the language. This course builds upon the skills acquired in Novice Abroad 1.

By the end of the course, the successful student will develop a basic foundation in the five skills: intercultural communication, reading, writing, listening, and speaking to accomplish a variety of basic everyday needs in the host culture as described in the learning outcomes below.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:
By the end of the course, students will be able to achieve some of the outcomes for the Novice Abroad level as defined by the MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. The key learning outcomes from the MAP are summarized below:

I. Intercultural Communication
   A. Students will be able to meet simple everyday needs using verbal and nonverbal communication, and they will be able to use compensatory strategies when they do not know the word or expression (repetition, talking around the point, body language etc.).
   B. Students can recognize some appropriate and inappropriate expressions and behaviors in the host language.
   C. Students will be able to distinguish between basic representations of formality and informality in the language.
   D. Students will understand that there are differences between cultural stereotypes and generalizations between the home culture and the culture of the host country.
   E. Students will start to make informed comparisons between the host culture and the home culture.

II. Listening
   A. Students will be able to understand basic statements, requests, descriptions, and questions in specific cultural context relevant to them (interactions with hosts, Center interactions, studying, shopping, transportation, meals).
   B. Students will be able to use context to understand the gist of some simple spoken language they overhear, including the media, conversations between others, and announcements.

III. Speaking
   A. Students will be able to use simple phrases appropriately in everyday situations (home, the IES Abroad Center, the community)
   B. Students will be able to express many simple needs by asking questions, and get what they need in uncomplicated, everyday situations.

IV. Reading
   A. Students will be able to identify and understand many simple sentences and deduce some meaning from context if it is relevant to their studies.
   B. Students will be able to interpret main ideas in short passages, and news headlines if they are relevant to them.
V. Writing
   A. Students will be able to write short texts about simple and concrete topics they have studied, such as themselves, their families, their friends, their likes, their dislikes, plans, experiences, and their daily routines.
   B. Students will be able to send simple emails, text messages, online posts, and postcards, and fill out some simple forms.

201 Novice Abroad Intensive

STUDENT PROFILE:
This course is designed for students with little or no prior knowledge of Italian, but with an interest in an intensive language development experience. Students who have studied another Romance language may be interested in entering this level.

By the end of the course, the successful student will have built a solid foundation in the five skills: intercultural communication, reading, writing, listening, and speaking to accomplish a variety of everyday needs in the host culture as described in the learning outcomes below and should be capable of entering the Emerging Independent Abroad level.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:
By the end of the course, students will be able to achieve the outcomes for the Novice Abroad level as defined by the MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. The key learning outcomes from the MAP are summarized below:

I. Intercultural Communication
   A. Students will be able to meet simple everyday needs using verbal and nonverbal communication, and they will be able to use compensatory strategies when they do not know the word or expression (paraphrasing, repetition, talking around the point, body language, etc.).
   B. Students can recognize some appropriate and inappropriate expressions and behaviors in the host language.
   C. Students will be able to distinguish between simple representations of formality and informality in the language.
   D. Students will identify some differences between cultural stereotypes and generalizations between the home culture and the host culture.
   E. Students will start to make informed comparisons between their host culture and the home culture.

II. Listening
   A. Students will be able to understand simple statements, requests, descriptions, and questions in specific cultural context relevant to them (interactions with hosts, Center interactions, studying, shopping, transportation, meals).
   B. Students will be able to use context to understand the gist of some spoken language they overhear, including the media, conversations between others, and announcements.

III. Speaking
   A. Students will be able to use simple phrases appropriately in everyday situations with increasing accuracy (home, the IES Abroad Center, the community).
   B. Students will be able to express simple needs by asking questions, and get what they need in uncomplicated, everyday situations.
IV. Reading

   A. Students will be able to identify and understand simple sentences and deduce meaning from context if it is relevant to their studies.

   B. Students will be able to interpret main ideas in short passages and news headlines if they are relevant to them.

V. Writing

   A. Students will be able to write short texts about concrete topics, such as themselves, their families, their friends, their likes, their dislikes, plans, experiences, and their daily routines.

   B. Students will be able to send simple emails, text messages, online posts, and postcards, and fill out some simple forms.

   C. Students will be able to write with increased accuracy, although using some native language structures.

301 Emerging Independent Abroad I

STUDENT PROFILE:

Students entering this level must be able to fulfill the learning outcomes of the Novice Abroad level, as defined by the IES Abroad MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. Specifically, they should already be able to express themselves on a variety of concrete, everyday topics and meet their basic needs in the language. Students who enter this level may be more proficient in reading and writing skills than oral communication, especially if they have never traveled or studied abroad previously. Although students may have been exposed previously to certain competencies taught at this level, they need additional practice and instruction to move toward mastery of these competencies.

As students gain more self-awareness and self-confidence, they will attempt more in the community. Paradoxically, this means they may also experience more miscommunications and frustration. Reading and writing require effort, and many students will need to commit themselves in this regard. Students will also develop cultural awareness and skills to work through the challenges of adaptation in the local culture and learn to celebrate their successes. Increasingly, they will appreciate the value of these language and intercultural skills.

This course builds upon skills introduced in Novice Abroad. By the end of the course, the successful student will have begun to develop some communicative and cultural self-confidence necessary to attempt moderately complex tasks in the language, as described in the learning outcomes below.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Students who are placed in this level should be capable of achieving the outcomes in the Novice Abroad level as defined by the IES Abroad MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication.

By the end of the course, students will be able to achieve some of the outcomes for the Emerging Independent Abroad level as defined by the MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. The key learning outcomes from the MAP are summarized below:
I. Intercultural Communication
   A. Students will be able to solve some daily troublesome situations and meet needs with limited help.
   B. Students will be able to make some informed comparisons between the host culture and the students’ home cultures.
   C. Students will be able to distinguish between verbal and nonverbal communication that reflects politeness, formality, or informality.
   D. Students will be able to recognize simple patterns of intonation and their meaning.

II. Listening
   A. Students will be able to understand some interactions (media, speeches, music, directives, conversations, etc.), especially if the speaker is used to interacting with non-native speakers.
   B. Students will be able to understand direct requests, questions, and simple conversations on familiar and concrete topics.

III. Speaking
   A. Students will be able to talk to a limited extent with and about persons and about things in their immediate environment, and they will be able to discuss their plans, wishes, and experiences.
   B. Students will be able to address moderately complicated situations involving familiar subjects.

IV. Reading
   A. Students will be able to read passages and short texts (notes, lyrics, uncomplicated literary passages, detailed instructions, etc.) on familiar topics and understand the general meaning.
   B. Students will actively support their understanding of texts through the use of context, visual aids, dictionaries, or with the assistance of others in order to facilitate comprehension.

V. Writing
   A. Students will be able to communicate with some effectiveness through notes, emails, and simple online discussions and chats.
   B. Students will be able to write short essays on concrete topics of limited levels of complexity, with reliance on the communicative patterns of their native language.

Although students may have been exposed previously to certain competencies taught at this level, they need additional practice and instruction to move toward mastery of these competencies. Students at this level may succeed in partner university courses as long as such courses are primarily designed for international students and/or require passive student linguistic participation (art studios, dance).
As students gain more self-awareness and self-confidence, they will attempt more in the community. Paradoxically, this means they may also experience more miscommunications and frustration. Reading and writing require effort, and many students will need to make a special effort in this regard. Students will also develop cultural awareness and skills to work through the challenges of adaptation in the local culture and learn to celebrate their successes. They will begin to appreciate the value of these language and intercultural skills.

This course builds upon the skills introduced in Emerging Independent Abroad I.    A. Students will be able to solve many daily troublesome situations and meet needs with limited help.
   B. Increasingly, students will be able to make informed comparisons between the host culture and the students’ home cultures.
   C. Students will be able to distinguish and begin to imitate verbal and nonverbal communication that reflects politeness, formality, or informality.
   D. Students will be able to recognize some patterns of intonation, their meaning, and cultural implications.

II. Listening
   A. Students will be able to understand some interactions of increasing complexity (media, speeches, music, conversations, etc.), especially if the speaker is used to interacting with non-native speakers.
   B. Students will be able to understand many direct requests, questions, and basic conversations on familiar and concrete topics.

III. Speaking
   A. Increasingly, students will be able to talk about persons and things in their immediate environment, as well as their plans and their experiences, and they can provide a limited amount of supporting details.
   B. Students will be able to address and attempt to resolve moderately complicated situations involving familiar subjects.

IV. Reading
   A. Students will be able to read passages and short texts (advertisements, schedules, menus, recipes, etc.) and understand overall meaning.
   B. Students will be able to support their understanding of texts through the use of context, dictionaries, or with the assistance of others at times.
V. Writing

   A. Students will be able to communicate with some effectiveness through notes, emails, and simple online discussions and chats.

B. Students will be able to support their understanding of texts through the use of context or with the use of dictionaries or the assistance of others at times.
C. Students will be able to read and understand most text messages on everyday topics.

V. Writing
A. Students will be able to communicate with increasing effectiveness through notes, emails, and simple online discussions and chats.
B. Students will be able to write short essays on concrete topics of limited levels of complexity and with less reliance on the communicative patterns of their native language.
C. Students will be able to describe things, relate ideas, and express simple opinions in concrete language.

351 Independent Abroad I

STUDENT PROFILE:
Students who enter this level are able to accomplish everyday needs required to live in a new culture. In this course, students will begin to develop independence and autonomy so that, when communication does break down, they have some tools at their disposal to resolve these challenges independently. Students should welcome correction and guidance from their instructors, hosts, and others in the community as they progress.

By the end of this course, students will begin to converse at a rate of speed approaching normal conversation. They will start to become creative, spontaneous, and self-reliant as they solve problems, interpret texts, negotiate, and express their opinions, likes, and dislikes in the culture. Although students will still make errors and experience communication breakdowns, they are sometimes able to resolve these on their own. Students will understand some colloquial expressions and slang, and are starting to understand a wider variety of native speakers from different backgrounds.

By the end of this level, students will be capable of achieving the learning outcomes outlined below.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:
Students who are placed in this level should be capable of achieving the outcomes in the Emerging Independent Abroad level as defined by the IES Abroad MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication.

By the end of the course, students will be able to achieve some of the outcomes for the Independent Abroad level as defined by the MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. The key learning outcomes from the MAP are summarized below:

I. Intercultural Communication
   A. Students will begin to identify at a basic level key host cultures, subcultures, habits, norms, and behaviors in a variety of settings, and they will be aware of the risk that generalizations can lead to stereotypes.
   B. Students will start to identify their own cultural beliefs, behaviors, and values by contrasting and comparing them with those of the host cultures.
   C. Students will be able to identify some gestures and body language, and they may be able to integrate some of those nonverbal actions into their interactions with native speakers.
   D. Students will be able to establish relationships with locals and explore communities and places beyond their comfort zone.

II. Listening
   A. Students will be able to understand some spoken communications of moderate complexity (media, speeches, music, conversations, etc.) on a wide range of concrete everyday topics as well as abstract topics covered in classes.
   B. Students will begin to understand native speakers from a variety of backgrounds and limited experience with non-native speakers, and they will comprehend common colloquial expressions and slang.

III. Speaking
   A. Students will be able to speak on and discuss concrete everyday and personal topics, abstract topics covered in classes, as well as other topics of particular interest to them.
   B. Students will be able to participate and respond actively in a variety of interactions.

IV. Reading
   A. Students will be able to read and understand articles, online texts, short stories and other non-complicated literary texts using background knowledge to aid their comprehension.
   B. Students will begin to read and understand the main ideas of academic texts with assistance.
   C. Students will begin to read independently and support their comprehension through a variety of reading strategies.

V. Writing
   A. Students will be able to meet many everyday writing needs (notes, text messages, letters, emails, chats, online forums).
   B. Students will be able to write short essays for class that narrate, describe, report, compare, contrast, and summarize on a wide range of topics with developing degrees of grammatical and lexical accuracy.
   C. Students will be able to edit their own and their peers’ writing for common errors covered in class.
401 Emerging Competent Abroad I

STUDENT PROFILE:
Students who enter this course will have mastered most of the outcomes of the Independent Abroad level as defined by the IES Abroad MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. Among other characteristics, these students are able to converse at a rate of speed approaching normal conversation. They are creative, spontaneous, and self-reliant as they solve problems, interpret texts, negotiate, and express their opinions, likes, and dislikes in the culture. Although they still make errors and experience communication breakdowns, these students tend to resolve these challenges on their own. Students who enter this level can already understand a variety of colloquial expressions and slang, and are also able to understand a wider variety of native speakers from different backgrounds.

Students entering this level can succeed in a range of moderately complex university courses designed for native speakers. Before registering, they should consult with the appropriate IES Abroad academic advisor on course selection.

By the end of this course, students will have started to acquire the subtlety of expression and control of complex structures that characterize Competent Abroad learners. However, Emerging Competent Abroad learners have only partial mastery of these structures and quite often resort to simpler and more direct modes of expression, particularly when negotiating linguistically difficult or unfamiliar situations. Students at this level begin to understand some local cultural attitudes, values, beliefs, and behavior patterns. However, there will be numerous gaps and inconsistencies in their knowledge, and they lack the depth of understanding and sophistication of those who have spent more time living and working in the local context.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:
Students who are placed in this level should be capable of achieving the outcomes in the Independent Abroad level as defined by the IES Abroad MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication.

By the end of the course, students will be able to achieve some of the outcomes for the Emerging Competent Abroad level as defined by the MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. The key learning outcomes from the MAP are summarized below:

I. Intercultural Communication
   A. Students will begin to recognize and describe key host cultures, subcultures, habits, norms, and behaviors in a variety of settings, and they will be aware of the risk that generalizations can lead to stereotypes.
   B. Students will be able to reflect on and discuss the validity of their own cultural beliefs, behaviors, and values by contrasting and comparing them with those of the host cultures.
   C. Students will demonstrate openness toward different beliefs and styles even when they do not agree with them.
   D. Students will accept responsibility for their own learning by defining their linguistic goals and demonstrating independence in their exploration of the culture.

II. Listening
   A. Students will be able to identify a range of social and cultural accents and some regional differences of the spoken language.
   B. Students will be able to understand a variety of native speakers and non-native experts and comprehend an array of moderately complex interactions.
III. Speaking

A. Students will participate reasonably well in most academic and social interactions using, when appropriate, complex language including slang, colloquial expressions, double meaning, and humor with increasing confidence.
B. Students will be able to communicate with certain effectiveness in phone conversations and other non face-to-face interactions.
C. Students will be able to make arguments and form opinions on almost any topic of their interest.

IV. Reading

A. Students will be able to read and understand textbooks, literary works, and academic articles for classes taught in the host language as well as some popular texts for enjoyment.
B. Students will be able to read and understand authentic materials including newspapers, advertisements, brochures, instruction manuals, etc. on abstract topics with some assistance at times.

V. Writing

A. Students will be able to write for certain native audiences and express themselves somewhat clearly and effectively.
B. Students will be able to write essays for classes incorporating aspects of appropriate academic style with some assistance at times.

403 Emerging Competent Abroad III

STUDENT PROFILE:
Students who enter this course will have mastered most of the outcomes of the Independent Abroad level as defined by the IES Abroad MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication, as well as selected outcomes defined in Emerging Competent Abroad. Among other characteristics, these students are able to converse at a rate of speed approaching normal conversation. They are creative, spontaneous, and self-reliant as they solve problems, interpret texts, negotiate, and express their opinions, likes, and dislikes in the culture. However, Emerging Competent Abroad learners have only partial mastery of these structures and quite often resort to simpler and more direct modes of expression, particularly when negotiating linguistically difficult or unfamiliar situations. Emerging Competent Abroad speakers understand local cultural attitudes, values, beliefs, and behavior patterns well enough to make an informed choice about which cultural features they would like to adopt or need to adopt in order to live harmoniously in the local culture. They lack some of the depth of cultural understanding and sophistication of those who have spent more time living and working in the local context.
LEARNING OUTCOMES:
Students who are placed in this level should be capable of achieving the outcomes in the Independent Abroad level as defined by the IES Abroad MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication.

By the end of the course, students will be able to achieve the outcomes for the Emerging Independent Abroad level as defined by the MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. The key learning outcomes from the MAP are summarized below:

I. Intercultural Communication
   A. Students will be able to describe and analyze key host cultures, subcultures, habits, norms, and behaviors in a variety of settings, and they will be aware of the risk that generalizations can lead to stereotypes.
   B. Students will be able to analyze the validity of their own cultural beliefs, behaviors, and norms by contrasting and comparing them with those of the host cultures.
   C. Students will demonstrate openness and acceptance of different beliefs and styles even when they do not agree with them.
   D. Students will assume responsibility for their own learning by defining their linguistic goals and demonstrating independence in their exploration of the culture.

II. Listening
   A. Students will be able to identify a wide range of social and cultural accents and some regional differences of the spoken language.
   B. Students will be able to understand most native speakers and non-native experts and comprehend a wide array of moderately complex interactions.

III. Speaking
   A. Students will be able to participate fully in most academic and social interactions using, when appropriate, complex language including slang, colloquial expressions, double meaning, and humor with increasing confidence.
   B. Students will be able to make arguments to support hypotheses and opinions on topics of their interest.
   C. Students will talk about abstract topics, but only if they are topics previously studied or which they are personally familiar.
   D. Students will be able to interact using different levels of formality.

IV. Reading
   A. Students will be able to read and understand profoundly textbooks, literary works, and academic articles for classes taught in the host language as well as a wide range of popular texts for enjoyment.
   B. Students will be able to read and understand authentic materials including newspapers, advertisements, brochures, instruction manuals, etc. on abstract topics with limited assistance.
   C. Students will be able to choose independently their reading materials based upon their own interests.

V. Writing
   A. Students will be able to write for a wide range of native audiences and express themselves quite clearly and effectively.
   B. Students will be able to write essays for classes incorporating aspects of appropriate academic style with limited assistance.
   C. Students will be able to use a variety of formal written styles with accuracy.
451 Competent Abroad

STUDENT PROFILE:
Students who enter this course will already be capable of achieving the outcomes of the Emerging Competent Abroad level as defined by the IES Abroad MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. Students who take this level should already be familiar with most of the complex structures and linguistic functions that will be covered. They should not be surprised, however, to find that they will need to review these aspects of the language to develop greater fluency and more sensitivity to subtle and underlying linguistic and cultural meanings.

Students entering this level can succeed in a wide range of university courses designed for native speakers, provided they have met any prerequisites. Before registering, they should consult with the appropriate IES Abroad academic advisor on course selection.

By the end of this course, students will be fully able to meet the demands of living and working in the host culture. They will be able to communicate accurately, vividly, and expressively with their hosts on most topics. Students who succeed in this course will be able to function in a professional setting and to undertake further personal or professional projects in the host culture. Students will be able to understand local cultural attitudes, values, beliefs, and behavior patterns well enough to make informed choices about which cultural features they would like to adopt or need to adopt in order to live harmoniously in the local culture.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:
Students who are placed in this level should be capable of achieving the outcomes in the Emerging Competent Abroad level as defined by the IES Abroad MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication.

By the end of the course, students will be able to achieve the outcomes for the Competent Abroad level as defined by the MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. The key learning outcomes from the MAP are summarized below:

I. Intercultural Communication
   A. Students will be able to express their own ideas, perspectives, and arguments thoroughly and yet tactfully, using language proficiency, sociolinguistic skills, and cultural knowledge.
   B. Students will be able to perform any activity (social, academic, professional) a local student of their age, skills, and background would do with a reasonable degree of success.

II. Listening
   A. Students will be able to recognize and appreciate the beauty and richness of language when they hear it.
   B. Students will be able to understand native speakers on a wide range of complex topics, including their digressions, side comments, and humor.
III. Speaking
   A. Students will be able to talk about abstract ideas and concepts, engage in agreement or disagreement, and defend their opinions with supporting evidence.
   B. Students will be able to use the language for a wide range of creative purposes.
   C. Students will be able to use humor and an extensive variety of colloquial and idiomatic expressions effectively.
   D. Students will be capable of varying their language to make subtle and complex distinctions (e.g. formality and informality) with a wide array of native speakers.

IV. Reading
   A. Students will be able to read and understand a wide range of non-academic texts from the local community (print or online), as well as sophisticated texts for their academic studies.
   B. Students will be able to understand the main ideas and supporting details when reading many works of literature and nonfiction with some assistance at times.
   C. Students will be able to recognize and appreciate the beauty and richness of the written word.

V. Writing
   A. Students will be able to write academic texts that describe, relate, report, compare and contrast, analyze, and summarize with a notable degree of precision and accuracy on a wide range of topics.
   B. Students will be able to distinguish between the written style and the spoken style, and will be able to use the written style effectively with some support.
