DESCRIPTION:
Through a close study of both primary and secondary materials in theology, spirituality, mysticism, and ecclesial history, this course will introduce students to the major forms and institutions of the Catholic tradition from Imperial Rome through the Medieval period. The course begins by studying Christianity's relationship to the Roman Empire and its post-imperial growth and development. This is followed by an examination of the central religious institutions such as the papacy (we will study the historic development of the papacy and attend a Papal Audience), monasticism (we will study the rule of Saint Benedict and visit a Benedictine monastery), and the university (we will study scholasticism and visit a Dominican university). We will also look at medieval religious reform orders, in particular the Franciscans, and we will visit the birthplace of Saint Francis of Assisi. We will explore the theological and philosophical influence of Augustine and Thomas of Aquinas as well as alternative expressions of religious faith in mystics, notably Catherine of Siena.

Grading Rubric for student participation:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Grade</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| A     | Excellent participation
The student’s contributions reflect an active reading of the assigned bibliography. Skillfully synthesizes the main ideas of the readings and raises questions about the applications and implications of the material. Demonstrates, through questions and comments, that he or she has been capable of relating the main ideas in the readings to the other information discussed in the course, and with his or her own life experience. The student makes informed judgments about the readings and other ideas discussed in class, providing evidence and reasons. He/she respectfully states his/her reactions about other classmates’ opinions, and is capable of contributing to the inquiry spiral with other questions. The student gets fully involved in the completion of the class activities. |
| B     | Very good participation
The student’s contributions show that the assigned materials are usually read. Most of the time the main ideas are identified, even though sometimes it seems that applications and implications of the information read were not properly reflected upon. The student is able to construct over others’ contributions, but sometimes seems to interrupt the shared construction to go over tangents. He/she is respectful of others’ ideas. Regularly involved in the activities but occasionally loses concentration or energy.

C Regular participation
The participant evidences a regular reading of the bibliography, but in a superficial way. He/she tries to construct over others’ ideas, but commonly provides comments that indicate lack of preparation about the material. Frequently, contributions are shallow or unarticulated with the discussion in hand.

F Insufficient participation
Consistently, the participant reads in a shallow way or does not read at all. Does not participate in an informed way, and shows lack of interest in constructing over others’ ideas.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:
By the end of the course students will be able to:

- Define and delimit the historical development of the Catholic tradition from antiquity through the high Middle Ages.
- Illustrate the particular and independent ways in which the Catholic tradition has been shaped by the institutions of the papacy, the monastery, and the university.
- Recognize, compare and analyze the contribution to the Catholic worldview of such figures as Augustine, Thomas Aquinas, Francis of Assisi and Catherine of Siena.
- Express the above understanding through active class participation, weekly reflections on readings and site visits, written examinations, and a final reflection paper. A weekly reflection paper of one page, single spaced, is due by Sunday at midnight. This reflection paper should be submitted via email.

ATTENDANCE POLICY:
Attendance is mandatory for all IES classes, including field studies. If a student misses more than one class, 2 percentage points will be deducted from the final grade for every additional absence. Any exams, tests, presentations, or other work missed due to student absences can only be rescheduled in cases of documented medical emergencies or family emergencies.
