CN 351 Chinese Language in Context: Emerging Independent II
IES Abroad Shanghai Center Syllabus

DESCRIPTION:
This class is intended to be a course in Chinese language as part of IES Abroad Shanghai Program for students who have studied Chinese for at least eight semesters or learners with equivalent language proficiency. During the three-month Chinese course, the students are expected to acquire a variety of business Chinese linguistic skills and Chinese literature knowledge, and they will also engage in various kinds of language activities and field trips.

Research has demonstrated that study abroad can enhance every aspect of language ability. One of the most important general findings of this research is, however, that study abroad is most beneficial for the development of abilities related to business Chinese and Chinese literatures. Students who can enhance communicative competence and prepare them to function more comfortably and confidently in Chinese business environment, such as writing business email, real cases study from real companies, business card design, writing market research report, applying proper Chinese business words, etiquette and culture in business situation. In additions, get more Chinese literatures knowledge, including Chinese Contemporary Literature and the ancient literary Chinese, such as new grammar patterns and more than 500 new words.

STUDENT PROFILE:
This class is a course in Chinese language for non-Chinese speakers. It is designed for those students who have studied Chinese for approximately two years (four or more semesters or six quarters). The course will begin with a series of “foundation building” sessions which not only give students communication tools that are immediately useful in their daily life, but which also consolidate previously learned fundamentals of the Chinese language. It is designed to bridge the gap between intermediate and advanced Chinese. Students will acquire 1700 new words, the ability to correctly utilize new sentence and grammar patterns, and the skills necessary to utilize newly acquired material in practice dialogues. All of the course content is related to contemporary issues in China, with topics focusing on the daily lives of the Chinese people. The class emphasizes all four major areas of language acquisition: speaking, listening, reading, and writing.

By the end of the course, students will be able to achieve some of the outcomes for the Independent Abroad level as defined by the MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. The key learning outcomes from the MAP are summarized below:

Intercultural Communication
Students will begin to identify at a basic level key host cultures, subcultures, habits, norms, and behaviors in a variety of settings, and they will be aware of the risk that generalizations can lead to stereotypes.
Students will start to identify their own cultural beliefs, behaviors, and values by contrasting and comparing them with the host cultures.
Students will be able to identify some gestures and body language, and they may be able to integrate some of those non-verbal actions into their interactions with native speakers.
Listening
Students will be able to understand some spoken communications of moderate complexity (media, speeches, music, conversations, etc.) on a wide range of concrete everyday topics as well as abstract topics covered in classes.
Students will begin to understand native speakers from a variety of backgrounds and limited experience with non-native speakers, and they will comprehend common colloquial and idiomatic expressions as well as slang.
Students will be able to interpret some indirect speech and verbal cues given during conversation with native speakers.

Speaking
Students will be able to speak on and discuss concrete everyday and personal topics, abstract topics covered in classes, as well as other topics of particular interest to them.
Students will be able to participate and respond actively in a variety of interactions.

Reading
Students will be able to read and understand articles, stories, and online texts using background knowledge to aid their comprehension.
Students will begin to read and identify the basic ideas of academic texts with assistance.

Writing
Students will be able to meet many everyday writing needs (notes, journals, letters, emails, chats, class project scripts, and online forums).
Students will be able to write brief essays for class that narrate, describe, report, compare, contrast, and summarize on a wide range of topics with developing degrees of grammatical and lexical accuracy.

GRADING POLICY:

- Attendance
  Every day you start with 100 points (including fieldtrips and Chinese class activities).
  - Late within 10 minutes, no deduction from your score.
  - Late between 10 and 30 minutes, 30 points will be deducted.
  - Late over 30 minutes, 50 points will be deducted.
  - The same rule applies to leaving class early.
  - Unexcused absences will result in 0 points, and from the fourth absence onward, every absence will result in degrading the final course grade by one-third, e.g. from B- to C+.

- Participation
  Every day you start with 100 points (including fieldtrips and other Chinese class activities)
  - If you actively participate in the classes and the class-related activities or field trip, you will receive 100 points.
  - If you do not participate actively, certain points will be deducted accordingly.

- Dictation
  A Dictation is worth 100 points
  - If you are late or absent, you will probably miss it, and, therefore lose the 100 points.
  - For an absence (with a doctor’s note or center director’s written approval), you can make up the previous dictation with your instructor or the language coordinator on the same day. However, you will receive, at most, 70 points for a make-up dictation.
  - After the third unexcused absence, that day’s dictation will be 0 points.

- Homework
  Every homework is worth 100 points.
  - If you do it carefully and hand it in on time, you will receive 100 points.
  - If you finish it rashly with a careless attitude, certain points will be deducted accordingly.
  - If you forget to do the homework or hand it in, you are required to hand it in the next day, and you will receive at most 70 points.
  - If you forget to do the homework or hand it in more than two days late, you will get 0 points.
