HS/PO/PH 355 POLITICS AND PHILOSOPHY OF POWER IN THE LAND OF MACHIAVELLI
IES Abroad Rome

DESCRIPTION:
Politics and Philosophy of power in the Land of Machiavelli is the study of the history of the ideas and reflections on power and political morality from 15th century Italy to the present, intended also as an investigation on Italy’s social and cultural identity in historical perspective. The first part of the course focuses on Renaissance Italy, with special attention to The Prince by Niccolò Machiavelli. The second part of the course addresses some major themes of political theory that are deeply rooted in the Machiavellian tradition of political realism, through the perspectives of political philosophy, history, political science and political psychology. Actual case studies will be considered as examples of the use of the mechanisms of power in historical and everyday situations.

Grading Rubric for student participation:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Grade</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A</td>
<td>Excellent participation&lt;br&gt;The student’s contributions reflect an active reading of the assigned bibliography. Skillfully synthesizes the main ideas of the readings and raises questions about the applications and implications of the material. Demonstrates, through questions and comments, that he or she has been capable of relating the main ideas in the readings to the other information discussed in the course, and with his or her own life experience. The student makes informed judgments about the readings and other ideas discussed in class, providing evidence and reasons. He/she respectfully states his/her reactions about other classmates’ opinions, and is capable of contributing to the inquiry spiral with other questions. The student gets fully involved in the completion of the class activities.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B</td>
<td>Very good participation</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The student’s contributions show that the assigned materials are usually read. Most of the time the main ideas are identified, even though sometimes it seems that applications and implications of the information read were not properly reflected upon. The student is able to construct over others’ contributions, but sometimes seems to interrupt the shared construction to go over tangents. He/she is respectful of others’ ideas. Regularly involved in the activities but occasionally loses concentration or energy.

C Regular participation
The participant evidences a regular reading of the bibliography, but in a superficial way. He/she tries to construct over others’ ideas, but commonly provides comments that indicate lack of preparation about the material. Frequently, contributions are shallow or unarticulated with the discussion in hand.

F Insufficient participation
Consistently, the participant reads in a shallow way or does not read at all. Does not participate in an informed way, and shows lack of interest in constructing over others’ ideas.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:
By the end of the course students will be able to:
• Reflect on the concept of power
• Compare different theories of power and recognize them in real life situations
• Analyze Machiavelli’s thought in detail
• Assess the influence of Machiavelli in history and political science
• Reflect on the nature of democratic regimes as opposed to other systems of government
• Assess the role of specific political theories in history
• Use the knowledge of power for their own advantage

ATTENDANCE POLICY:
Attendance is mandatory for all IES classes, including field studies. If a student misses more than two classes in this course, 2 percentage points will be deducted from the final grade for every additional absence. Any exams, tests, presentations, or other work missed due to student absences can only be rescheduled in cases of documented medical emergencies or family emergencies. IES will only consider extreme emergency cases and will strictly adhere to this policy. Do plan your semester accordingly.
