TH 355 THEATER INDUSTRY: INSIDE AND OUT
IES Abroad London

DESCRIPTION: In this course, students gain an in-depth knowledge of the structures, frameworks, and practices that make the contemporary theatre industry flourish in London. Connecting dramatic theory with practice, students engage directly with the “makers” of both traditional and alternative theatre sectors, with particular emphasis on the non-mainstream. Seminar discussions will be led by the tutor, the students themselves, and guest practitioners from the industry. The curriculum includes regular course-related trips.

CREDITS: 3 credits

LANGUAGE OF INSTRUCTION: English

METHOD OF PRESENTATION:
- Seminar discussions
- Course-related trips
- Workshops

There is some flexibility required with regards to the dates and times we meet outside of the regular class slot, in which case there will always be notice given.

REQUIRED WORK AND FORM OF ASSESSMENT:
- In-class participation (10%)
- Journal in which students reflect on and current theatre events and site visits (30%)
- Lead a discussion on an assigned academic text (10%)
- Presentation on final paper topic (15%) Please note the paper is not handed in on the week in which you present; the presentation is to enhance and focus your paper
- Final paper of 2500 words in which the student compiles original research and analysis of one movement or practitioner (35%)

LEARNING OUTCOMES:
By the end of the course students will be able to:
- Demonstrate the ability through class discussion and written assignments to engage in current debates and dialogue regarding the theatre industry in London.
- Explore the relationship between dramatic theory and practice.
- Through first-hand experience and continually-assessed reflection, students will gain an understanding of non-mainstream theatre, including non-verbal performance.
- Incorporate into their written and verbal analyses information gleaned from interviews with field practitioners (e.g., guest speakers, writers, directors, and/or designers).
- Demonstrate through class discussion and written assignments that they are knowledgeable about the Arts Council funding practice.

CONTENT:
To reiterate: the order of sessions and specific works, field visits, and guest practitioners are subject to change based on production and practitioner availability. Also, the specific subject of the practical workshops may well be changed to take advantage of what or who becomes available. The final content will be finalized the first few weeks of class.
(The show in brackets indicates the production seen the previous week in Theatre in London class. Exact titles given in Week 1.)
