SP 401 SPANISH LANGUAGE IN CONTEXT: EMERGING COMPETENT ABROAD I
IES Abroad Granada

DESCRIPTION:
Research has demonstrated that study abroad can enhance every aspect of language ability. One of the most important general findings of this research is, however, that study abroad is most beneficial for the development of abilities related to social interaction. Students who go abroad can learn to do things with words, such as requesting, apologizing, or offering compliments, and they may also learn to interpret situations calling on such speech acts in ways that local people do...In short, and logically, study abroad has been shown to enhance the aspects of communicative competence that are most difficult to foster in classroom settings (IES Abroad MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication, p. 6).

CREDITS: 4 credits

CONTACT HOURS: 60 hours

LANGUAGE OF INSTRUCTION: Spanish

PREREQUISITES:
Students who enter this course will have mastered most of the outcomes of the Independent Abroad level as defined by the IES Abroad MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. Among other characteristics, these students are able to converse at a rate of speed approaching normal conversation. They are creative, spontaneous and self-reliant as they solve problems, interpret texts, negotiate, express their opinions, likes and dislikes in the culture. Although they still make errors and experience communication breakdowns, these students tend to resolve these challenges on their own. Students who enter this level can already understand a variety of colloquial expressions and slang and are also able to understand a wider variety of native speakers from different backgrounds.

By the end of this course, students will have started to acquire the subtlety of expression and control of complex structures that characterize Competent Abroad learners. However, Emerging Competent Abroad learners have only partial mastery of these structures and quite often resort to simpler and more direct modes of expression, particularly when negotiating linguistically difficult or unfamiliar situations. Students at this level begin to understand some local cultural attitudes, values, beliefs, and behavior patterns. However, there will be numerous gaps and inconsistencies in their knowledge, and they lack the depth of understanding and sophistication of those who have spent more time living and working in the local context.

METHOD OF PRESENTATION:
This course will follow an eclectic approach that combines the main methodological contributions of the communicative method, the task-based method and some elements from the cognitive approach. Classes will be developed through a balanced combination of the instructor’s explanations (linguistic input) on grammar and vocabulary in a functional manner and the students’ participation through controlled, semi-controlled and free activities, designed with an increasing level of complexity. Students will do readings, debates, activities and weekly essays to practice the new contents and also oral presentations of their research papers, either in pairs or in groups. Materials and activities will be available in Moodle.

REQUIRED WORK AND FORM OF ASSESSMENT:
- Active participation and attitude – 30%
- Midterm exam – 10%
- Final Exam – 20%
- Essays – 10%
- Oral competence – 10%
- Research project – 20%

Active participation will be evaluated positively if the student:
- Is really present in class.
- Shows a real willingness and a positive attitude to learn.
• Is attentive to the instructor’s explanations.
• Participates in the class’ activities.
• Hands in the assignments within the expected deadlines.
• Interacts with the instructor and with the other students.
• Shows respect towards the instructor and the other students.

LEARNING OUTCOMES:
Students who are placed in this level should be capable of achieving the outcomes in the Independent Abroad level as defined by the IES Abroad MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication.

By the end of the course, students will be able to achieve some of the outcomes for the Emerging Competent Abroad level as defined by the MAP for Language and Intercultural Communication. The key learning outcomes from the MAP are summarized below:

I. Intercultural Communication
   A. Students will begin to recognize and describe key host cultures, subcultures, habits, norms, and behaviors in a variety of settings, and they will be aware of the risk that generalizations can lead to stereotypes.
   B. Students will be able to reflect on and discuss the validity of their own cultural beliefs, behaviors, and values by contrasting and comparing them with the host cultures.
   C. Students will demonstrate openness toward different beliefs and styles even when they do not agree with them.
   D. Students will accept responsibility for their own learning by defining their linguistic goals and demonstrating independence in their exploration of the culture.

II. Listening
   A. Students will be able to identify a range of social and cultural dialects of the spoken language.
   B. Students will be able to understand a variety of native speakers and non-native experts and comprehend an array of moderately complex interactions.

III. Speaking
   A. Students will participate reasonably well in most academic and social interactions using when appropriate complex language including slang, colloquial expressions, double meaning, and humor with increasing confidence.
   B. Students will be able to make arguments and form opinions on almost any topic of their interest.

IV. Reading
   A. Students will be able to read and understand textbooks and academic articles for classes taught in the host language as well as some popular texts for enjoyment.
   B. Students will be able to read and understand authentic materials including newspapers, advertisements, brochures, instruction manuals, etc. on abstract topics with some assistance at times.

V. Writing
   A. Students will be able to write for certain native audiences and express themselves somewhat clearly and effectively.
   B. Students will be able to write essays for classes incorporating aspects of appropriate academic style with some assistance at times.

ATTENDANCE POLICY:
Attendance is mandatory for all IES classes, including course-related trips. For this course, if a student misses more than four classes, one third of a letter grade will be deducted from the final grade for every additional absence. Missed exams, presentations, or any other assignments can only be rescheduled in case of documented medical or family emergencies.
